Prerequisites

The master's degree has a professional vocation, so previous work experience in the fields of economic and cultural management will be valued, although it is not an essential requirement. What is fundamental is the interest in learning new knowledge in an intercultural and globalized environment. It is also valued to have a B1 level of English according to the Common European Framework of Reference

Objectives

The aims of this module are, first of all, to acquire a basic theoretical knowledge of the concept of culture. It will address the issue of cultural diversity and contact between cultures, and the paradigms of intercultural relations. The different models of intercultural studies on the European Union and China will be presented and discussed, focusing on the historical, social and cultural evolution of the two regions.

Second, the intercultural communication is one of the aspects that will be deepened at a theoretical level and later applied through case studies of intercultural communication between the European Union and China in the business world.

Thirdly, the economic value of culture in today's societies and its consequences on social and work organization will be studied. An approach will be made to the cultural evolution of Chinese and Spanish societies from a historical perspective, analyzing the political, economic and social transformation of Spain throughout the 20th Century, with references to the same process in China. Finally, to delve deeper into the cultural industries, from the different theoretical approaches to their development in the digital era, without forgetting cultural policies.

Learning outcomes

1. Use acquired knowledge as a basis for originality in the application of ideas, often in a research context.
2. Continue the learning process, to a large extent autonomously.
3. Identify the differentiating features in the cultural expressions of the European Union and China.
4. Recognise the most relevant features of current cultural trends in the European Union and China.
5. Interpret the socio-cultural changes undergone by these two regions in the first decade of the 21st century.
6. Recognise and apply theoretical models to specific cases in the cultural and sociological fields.
7. Identify the main participants in intercultural communication between the two regions.
8. Make innovative proposals to address the problems and intercultural conflicts in the relations between the European Union and China.
9. Carry out team work in interdisciplinary and multicultural environments.
10. Make creative and original contributions in distinct fields, demonstrating an attitude of respect towards the opinions, values, behaviour and practices of others.

Assessment

Continuous assessment activities

Title	Weight	Hours	ECTS	Learning outcomes
Individual works	25	50	2	1, 2, 6, 10
Group work	25	50	2	6, 8, 9, 10
Written exam	40	12.5	0.5	3, 4, 5, 6, 7
individual oral presentations to class	10	37.5	1.5	3, 4, 5, 7

Evaluation activities will be of the following types:

Formative and summative evaluation, the objective of which is to monitor the student's learning process, will be divided into four types of tests distributed throughout the semester. The exact date will be agreed in advance with the students and will be announced sufficiently in advance.

Different competences will be evaluated according to the state of learning. A final written exam will be taken (40% of the final grade). If a student is unable to attend class on the day of a test, he or she must inform the teacher in advance and make it on an agreed day.

Summative evaluation, the objective of which is to qualify, will be based on the delivery of the tasks proposed by the teacher for each subject of the module will be made one or two deliveries, depending on the case. It will consist of individual works (25% of the final grade) and group works (25% of the final grade) and individual oral presentations to class (10%).

Tasks must be submitted on time so that they can be evaluated. Late deliveries will not be accepted. Class attendance is compulsory and regular according to the Bologna process.

This module does not have a second call, but a second chance of recovery is given if the final grade is between 3.5 and 4.9 according to UAB regulations.

The grade will be a NOT EVALUABLE when the student has not presented 75% of the evaluable activities.

According to the regulations approved by the Commission for Academic Organization and Titles of the FTI and ratified by the Faculty Board on June 9, 2010, the subject can only be recovered in the following cases:

- When, in a justified manner, the student has not presented to 25 - 30% of the evaluable activities;
- When the final grade, including the grade for the key competence of the subject, prior to the minutes is between 3.5 and 4.9.

In both cases the student will present himself exclusively to the activities or tests not presented or suspended.

Excluded from grade recovery are tests suspended for copying or plagiarism.

In no case will it be possible to recover a grade by means of a final test equivalent to 100% of the grade.

In case of several irregularities in the evaluation activities of the same subject, the final grade of this subject will be \"zero\". Excluded from grade recovery are tests suspended for copying or plagiarism. A \"copy\" is considered to be a work that reproduces all or a large part of the work of a colleague, and \"plagiarism\" is the fact of presenting part or all of an author's text as one's own, that is, without citing the sources, whether it is published on paper or in digital form on the Internet. Copying and plagiarism constitute a fault that will be sanctioned with the note \"zero\". In the case of copying between two students, if it is not possible to know who copied whom, the sanction will be applied to both students.

Any irregularity committed in an assessment activity (academic fraud, plagiarism, or improper use of AI, unless such use is expressly authorized in the course syllabus) that may lead to a significant alteration of the grade will result in that assessment being awarded a mark of 0. If the course syllabus stipulates that obtaining a minimum grade in that assessment activity is an essential requirement for passing the course, or if multiple irregularities occur in the assessment activities of the same course, the final grade for the course will be 0. Furthermore, disciplinary proceedings may be initiated against any student who commits any of these irregularities.

This module does not apply the single assessment system.
